Annual Giving
Supported by the North Carolina Textile Foundation
A Tradition of Commitment

Since the North Carolina Textile Foundation (NCTF) was established in 1942, the organization has been raising funds to promote the welfare, development and reputation of NC State’s College of Textiles as the premier institution for textile education and research. Gifts to the NCTF directly support teaching, learning and scholarships across the College.

Through the philanthropy of loyal alumni, donors, industry partners and friends, the NCTF has invested nearly $35 million in student, faculty and programmatic support that enhances the educational experience for all students. This has included:

- Scholarships to deserving undergraduate and graduate students
- Recruitment/retention of highly qualified educators and researchers
- Acquisition/maintenance of state-of-the-art equipment and facilities
- Support career services to help graduates find employment

Supporting What Matters Most

As state resources become increasingly finite and educational costs continue to increase, the need for support has never been greater. Your annual gift to one of the three areas below enables the College to provide impactful support.

Dean’s Textiles Innovation Fund: Supports key priorities including student and faculty development, educational seminars/programs, retention of top faculty, conferences and other meaningful needs.

North Carolina Textile Foundation Unrestricted Fund: Helps faculty and departments in hosting/developing industry partnerships; supports the Office of Student and Career Services; assists in meeting immediate funding needs of the College; and provides unrestricted enrichment support for students and faculty.

College of Textiles Alumni Scholarship Fund: Provides an unrestricted pool of resources that strictly supports the financial needs of undergraduate and graduate students.

Thank you for your support!
“Being a first-generation college student, it was hard to fully understand my financial options. When I was in high school I dreamed of attending a prestigious institution like NC State, but I knew it would be nearly impossible unless I received some type of scholarship. If I did not have the Centennial Scholarship, I can frightfully and honestly admit that I am not sure where I would be in regards to post high school education, which is why I am so humbled to be where I am today.”

  Polymer and Color Chemistry
  Recipient of the Joseph W. Lineberger Centennial Scholarship
